

TESTING OF ELT RESOURCES

The challenge

Oxford University Press is an international publisher of high-quality learning materials. OUP's Business Focus Elementary (BFE) is a CD ROM designed to accompany a new level of the Business English course for adults. OUP required Epicentre to utilise its extensive kit range and multiple foreign language operating systems to complete a wide ranging cross-compatibility test. The course contained highly interactive elements, such as the ability to record and play back user speech, as well as detailed video footage

The solution

Utilising OUP's instructions, Epicentre carefully constructed a varied matrix of kit and operating system combinations. From testing across this we were able to produce a detailed test report, noting when functions performed as intended as well as when bugs were encountered (and on which operating systems). The two companies continued to work closely together to retest all bugs reported until a satisfactory conclusion had been reached.

The outcome

OUP was particularly impressed with Epicentre's ability to deliver reports within deadlines and to keep testing within budget. Also appreciated were our professional client liaison and project management approaches, which helped strengthen the already strong relationship between the two companies. We have been testing OUP products ever since.
